

eGov—An Update for Librarians and Information Specialists

With the release of both the Office of Management and Budget report, Expanding EGovernment, and the recommendations of the Interagency Committee on Government Information's (ICGI) Categorization of Information Working Group, the new standards, category definitions and priorities outlined for implementing Section 207 of the EGovernment Act of 2002 will have a great influence on the work of federal librarians and information specialists. Join your colleagues for an update on these latest EGovernment developments and discuss how they will affect how your agency will address requirements for open, interoperable standards for categorizing government information.

Presentations will feature two members of the Categorization of Information Working Group:

- Richard Huffine—Information Access Division, Office of Environmental Information, Environmental Protection Agency
- Gretchen Schlag—Director, Program Planning and Coordination Service, Government Printing Office
